

Brennan enters, sitting on the counter with a yawn as Jenny turns off the burners.

He notices there is one plate as she starts to serve the food onto it. She smiles back at him, taking note of his confused expression.

JENNY

I have lunch with the ladies today.

She piles grits on the plate.

BRENNAN

Porches?

She slides it on the counter to him, a full pregnant belly prevented her from coming too close. She looks on him with affection and love.

JENNY

One of those and I don't need breakfast or dinner.

He takes a bite.

BRENNAN

You are feeding two, you know?

She smiles as he reaches a fork full of eggs across the way. She accepts. They stare at each other a moment, an overly in love couple. Then she notices the time on a clock behind him. She moves off suddenly.

BRENNAN

They don't open till eleven.

JENNY

You know we can't go to lunch without having our hair done first.

He wishes he has more morning time with her.

JENNY

Patsy insisted.

He nods, knowing the time with these friends is important. He then catches her just as she's about to disappear into the bedroom with another thought.

BRENNAN

Tell her I'll have it wrapped up today.

It's Jenny who is confused now.

BRENNAN

Patsy. She asked me to help finish the Raven set.

Jenny didn't know.

BRENNAN

Nevermore, nevermore.

She enjoys his silliness as she leaves to get ready.