

Now the ladies are seated in the parlor where the little girl plays once again, but this time it's much less creepy.

ELIZABETH
Paranormal Preversation International.

She says it all the while looking at her toys. Ben confirms this with the look in his ideas. The innkeeper comes into the room, walking and talking behind his partner.

INNKEEPER
With all the changes in our world, folks are getting more and more skeptical about the supernatural.

ELIZABETH
Cynics.

They're surprised by this little aside from the child.

INNKEEPER
Years ago, we started the PPI to protect the myths and folk tales of our culture.

He almost sounds like a commercial as he finishes his pitch and sits down on an old couch. The little girl gets up and rests on her father's lap.

ANN
So basically, you knock things off
the wall, run around making weird sounds and get little girls to creep people out.

She's skeptical. Elizabeth gives her an intimidating stink eye.
